INTRODUCTION

This chapter contains of four components such as the background of the research which discussing about the problems of the sexual deviation through the intrinsic element especially in the character and the plot of The Zoo Story playscript by Edward Albee. Moreover this chapter are tells the statement of problem, research objective, research significance, conceptual framework, previous study and definition of key terms.

1.1 Background of The Research

In this background, the researcher will discuss about the research. Firstly, the researcher wants to inform the readers about the play by Edward Albee’s The Zoo Story. Next, the researcher wants to discuss about the character from The Zoo Story play by Edward Albee, the method of the research are using queer theory and psychoanalysis to find out how the sexual deviation present in the main character in The Zoo Story play. Last, the researcher will discuss about the problem in The Zoo Story and tell the readers about the research significance. This research is supported by some previous study from paper and some journals.

The Zoo Story is the most popular play by American playwright Edward Albee. His first play was written in 1958 and the play premiered in the United States Off-Broadaway in a production by theatre 1960 at the Provincetown Playhouse and was directed by Milton Katseas and the casts are William Daniels as Peter and George Maharis as Jerry. In 1960, the play won Obie Award for distinguished play and distinguished performance. The play was started with Peter, a man in his forties who is reading a book and sitting on bench in the park. He has a wife, children, a home, and two televisions.

Suddenly, Jerry a 30-year-old man carelessly who dressed stranger and entered the scene to initiate a small talk with Peter, starting the conversation with “I have been to the zoo.” Jerry talks about his life in a poor rooming house owned by a cruel woman and her frightening dog who tries to bite him. He also tells Peter a story about his unusual sexual desires and he told to Peter about his past love story with a man when he was fifteen years old. Then, he killed a dog belonging to a landlady who always teased him. Later on, as he starts to occupy Peter’s bench and they come to fight over the possession of the bench, he draws Peter into an unusual encounter which ends in Jerry’s impaling himself upon the knife Peter holds. He commits a suicide to make himself seen by all those who watch the news on their TVs in their luxurious homes, or read the Time magazine on their seemingly peaceful Sunday afternoons.

Having read and watch the play, the researcher assume the emergence of sexual deviation are present in The Zoo Story. The research have quote from https://behavenet.com that the sexual deviation is abnormal behavior. As the researcher know, it can be classified by sexual classification. But it is not only about the classification about sexual itself, it can explain how people ruin their sexuality desire to the other object. It can be the problem of the sexuality human desire of abnormal sexual. The sexual behavior has been considered a legitimate topic of scientific inquiry only for 50 years, beginning with Alfred Kinsey’s landmark surveys (Bullough, 1998). Before that time, sexuality and its problem were to be regulated by the church, the government, or medicine. Thus, sexual behavior that deviated from established norm, however, was defined at the time, declare sinful, criminal, or sick. Deviant behavior, then, called for penitence, punishment, or a cure. This historical still influences our thinking about sexual deviation.

The problem of sexual deviation is present in The Zoo Story play by Edward Albee. As we know, play is one of literary work, firstly introduced by a Greek philosopher Aristotle. The play also performance is a stage with some actor. The word drama means “to do” or “to act”. He also identified the element of drama such as plot, character, thought and spectacle (Worthen, 2010). To analyze a drama in a study of literature must be supported minimum by two elements, namely plot and character, there are two significant elements and important in the story. Plot is the arrangement of the incidents or event in a story. Meanwhile, character is the player in the story.

The character in literary work can be analyzed by psychoanalysis theory, because literary work is a product of the psychiatric condition and thoughts of the author conveyed in the form of the creation of literary work. The author can imagine how the character feel pass their psychiatric condition. The psychiatric condition in every human are different, beside that the author can put their psychiatric condition through literature. Literature and psychological analysis have closely related. According to Endraswara, psychology and literature have ties indirectly and functional (Endraswara, 2003, pp.97-99).

The researcher is interested to analyze the intrinsic element from The Zoo Story play especially focus on the character and plot. From that the readers can know that the main character have a different personality and sexual deviation. To find out how the personality of main character, the researcher uses psychoanalysis from Sigmund Freud. The researcher uses the three basic principal, which include id, ego and superego. According to Freud, “id is an amorphous unstructured set of desires, the demand “I want” is the sum total of its mind contents.” (Thruschwell, 2000,p.82). From the statement above, id is the real desire of someone, and it never thinks about the consequence. Thus, id can not be separated from unconscious mind. Then, the ego will hold the desire and considers it with the reality. Last, superego is the condition to know the real situation and the reality from the ego itself.

Within The Zoo Story play, there are two character, Jerry and Peter. The researcher assumed that Jerry, has different personality from normal people, because he said to Peter that he was homosexual and queer. While Peter is a man in his early forties, who has wife, daughters and parakeets. Based on the sexual deviation of character Jerry, he has sexual desire to a man and another. To find out how sexual deviation present in Jerry’s character, the researcher use Queer theory.
Queer theory is a diverse field of studies that involves a lot of disparate ideas, the ideas we have in our mind is about what is male-ness, female-ness, and what establish normal. It is a criticism that seeks to answer a series of questions about what is normal, how normal comes to exist, and why is excluded or oppressed by concept of norms. It means that heterosexual norms are the basic ground as stepping platform on this theory. “For queer theorists, heterosexuality is a matrix “ (Butler, 1990). Judith Butler argue that there is no sex that have no gender. All body already gendered from the beginning by society (Butler, 1990). It means anything that exist is already gendered, identified by norms, gender binary of the “person” it is feminine or it is masculine is decided by the culture. The culture are affected by the social circumstance that the people live in their society.

Furthermore, Butler also suggest that “continuity” of the person” is not the logical feature of the “person”, his identity is measured by the concept of sex, gender and sexuality desire. The basic of the “person” is questioned with cultural point of view, is it ‘incoherent’ or fail to conform the cultural understanding in which the “person” is defined (Buttler, 1990). In this research, Judith Butler arguing about gender and relationship with norms understanding applied to classify the object’s gender by the norms of what the object should be classified.

Beside that, to find out how the homosexual presents, the researcher applies Luis Tyson’s cues. He states : Lesbian, gay, and queer criticism often rely on textual evidence. For example, in addition to the obvious forms of textual cues such as homoerotic imagery and erotic encounters between same-sex characters there are rather subtle textual cues that can create a homoerotic atmosphere even in an otherwise heterosexual test (Luis Tyson, 2006). In other word, any circumstances or condition that lead into homosexual of the object can be seen by the homoerotic atmosphere the object product.

1. To find out the sexual deviation in intrinsic elements of Edward Albee’s play script The Zoo Story.

2. To find out the consequences of the main character from sexual deviation in Edward Albee’s play script The Zoo Story.

2. Practical Significance

other researcher to analyze how sexuality influence in prose, poem or drama. The researcher expects, this researcher has far-reaching to help the researcher to analyze literature.

1.5 Frame of Thinking

As a literary work, a play present us with characters that serve as role models, both positive and negative; it offers us themes, ideas, and revelation that we can accept, scorn or store for future compilation. (Cohen, 2005, p. 32). From the statement before, it means a play can be a mirror of life, because in play is a piece of life imagination and can be framed to be a work of art.

Characters are persons who take part and are involved in the events of the story, which are described by the plot. Character it is obviously relevant to comfort to our experiences so that he is like ourselves or like others whom we know.
The plot is an important element that must be present in the story of the drama. Plot is a structural of the literary work which can bring the reader to the end of the story. Stanton in (Nurgiyantoro, 2010) state that plot is story that contains sequences of events how one event can lead another ones in each of those events should have been causality, one event is caused the other events that is occurred.

Sexual deviation existed before the 19th century, but in ancient times it is better known as ‘prevention’ which means an abnormal behaviour and the immisston of norms. From Advanced Learner's English Dictionary, the term sexual deviation derives from the word ‘sex’ which means sex is the physical activity which people can produce young. This means that sex is a physical activity. Beside that, ‘sexual’ is more referring to a feeling or activity of sex action with someone who desires sex as well. While ‘deviation’ here intends to explain an activity that is very different from normal people and usually diverge.

The definition if queer theory above is also in line with Michal Foucault in Spargo (2011:9), Foucault states that, “Queer theory is not singular or systematic conceptual or methodological framework, but a collection of intellectual engagments with the relations between sex, gender and sexual desire”. This definition also related to another scholar states that queer theory is used to analyzing gay and lesbian.

Then, the theory of psychoanalysis introduced by Sigmund Freud, which is a theory about the aspect of personality. In this theory, he divided into three parts, namely Id, Ego and Superego. Id is a desire that has been present since humans were born, this aspect of personality is understood and included from the narrative. This component is supported by the principle of pleasure for immediate satisfaction of requests and needs. Meanwhile, Ego is a component that is responsible for existing responsibilities. This component is developed from the id and ensures that it is approved by the Id can be determined in a way that is acceptable in the real world. The ego also works based on encouraging reality to satisfy the id in a challenging and socially appropriate manner. The last is the superego, where this component is a personality development that can accommodate all moral internalization standards.

1.6 Research Problem

The Zoo Story by Edward Albee is a very popular American play in 20th century, this drama tells the story of two men. The first man named Jerry, he had several problems in his life, especially sexual problems that he told the second male character, Peter. They talked about everything, including Peter's family and the two parakeets he had. However, the atmosphere became even more shocking when Jerry told me that he was a homosexual and was not interested in women, even he had killed a landlady dog who lives in the apartment. The researcher found out the problems about the sexual desire of the character in The Zoo Story play, especially in the main character. Beside, the character the researcher found out the sexual deviation also from the plot.

As human beings, of course we are faced with several consequences for all actions that have been done. As with the characters in The Zoo Story play, in this case the main character certainly experiences some consequences for what he has done, especially the sexual deviations that he did. Therefore the researcher wants to reveal what are the consequences of the main characters in The Zoo Story play’s.
