Abstract

This research especially focuses on the semiosis process identified from Cinta Laura Kiehl’s Instagram captions as a celebrity in Indonesia who is known as a celebrity who not only achieve recognition in acting but also singing, presenting, and others. This surely attracts a lot of audiences making the investigation on the semiotic phenomenon retrieved from Cinta’s Instagram page where she communicates and inspires people becomes interesting. The semiotic sign relation is seen through her captions by including the text and emoticons added in the captions. Anchored in sign relation theory by Charles Sanders Peirce and the perception of happiness by Martin Seligman, this study applied the qualitative research method to present the data analysis. The first result shows that the symbol sign relations in Cinta’s Instagram captions are in the form of texts that conveyed meaning in the expression of happiness that Cinta shares based on her life. Moreover, the emoticons in her Instagram captions have the function to enhance the expressions and contexts that the symbol initially stands for. The second result shows that the signs of happiness from Cinta’s Instagram captions are divided into two main aspects of relationship and achievements.

1. Introduction

The use of online social media platforms is very popular and highly used by people of all ages all over the world. Online social media are commonly used as a means of communication and a tool for sharing information effectively with the help of an internet connection where people can access almost all types of information regardless of the time and place. Aside from its main functions of communication and information sharing platforms, online social media is widely used as a platform for creativity and expression. Social media has functioned as a means of communication between users as well as a platform to produce contents that spread online (Nasrullah, 2015). The term ‘contents’ that people produced over the online platform vary greatly starting from written texts, pictures, video, audio, and so forth. Social media content is usually limited by guidelines for the community. Based on how online social media platform allows people to share their content, the phenomenon relating to how language is used in this matter becomes essential to further analyzed.

Language phenomenon within the popular use of online social media and advanced technology is interesting to be discussed how the language itself is used in the community that dynamically develops over time. One of the social media platforms where people can share their thoughts and other various purposes in the form of text and pictures is Instagram. Instagram creates an online community where people build their social network as well as share their activities by uploading pictures, videos, and texts as captions to the attached picture or videos (Bestari et al., 2020). In this sense, Instagram combines several types of elements that are used for certain purposes aimed by the users where each element of media is interrelated to one another in a particular sense. The combined elements provided through Instagram represent the use of language that does not only refer to spoken utterances and written texts but also includes the use of other forms such as visual and audio. Language takes various forms starting from visual to verbal signs that are further interpreted by the participants in the present communication (Nisak & Muyassaroh, 2022). Relating to the online social media platform, especially Instagram, the language phenomenon in its various forms is present through the practices in moments and expression sharing by the users. Not only with the combination of pictures, videos, and texts but also with the use of emoticons as symbols that emphasizes what is being delivered through the Instagram posts.

The discussion on how language takes various forms and how meaning is interpreted belongs to the linguistic sub-field addressed as semiotic. Semiotic refers to the wide and diverse sub-field in linguistics that focuses on the relation between sign systems of language represented through varied media and channels to convey certain meaning (Prior, 2014). This means that semiotics deal with the discussion of how meaning is interpreted from the sign system that consists of combined elements of language. Charles Sanders Peirce, one of the influential figures in the semiotic field determines three main types of sign relations consisting of symbol, icon, and index. A symbol refers to a certain entity that is related to a certain meaning, impression, or sensation through the process of symbol-using mind.
association (Chandler, 2017). In other words, the symbol refers to the sign interpretation through habitual or contextual relation between an object to its meaning. Moreover, the icon as the type of sign relation refers to the resemblance or similarities of an object towards certain quality. Peirce explained that icon refers to the imitation of certain qualities through senses such as appearance, feelings, smell, taste, and sound (Chandler, 2017). This means that icon relates to its object from the particular quality that the sign has and represents. Lastly, index refers to the cause-effect and physical relations between the sign and meaning. Peirce explained that indexical sign relation refers to the direct sign relation that can be inferred and observed such as natural signs; ‘the sky is somber as the sign with the interpretation that it will rain soon. This demonstration shows the direct inference and physical sign relations of the index (Chandler, 2017).

The investigation of language phenomenon especially in the field of semiotics on its use in online platforms has been taken into the main concern of several researchers. Cara reveals the semiotic relations from Instagram that further convey cultural aims in the published contents through visual and verbal language that are shaped not only to be informative but also aesthetically pleasing (Cara, 2018). This means that the semiosis process provided on the Instagram platform does not only function as a medium of communication but is also designed to attract viewers from the aesthetic display that combine the elements of verbal and visual language. As Instagram post includes the caption feature, how the language used within the online manner varies with the use of emoticons. Jannah, Maharania, and Winarta reveal that the use of emoticons in Instagram captions are used in expressing gestures or feelings relating to the post that is shared for the context within the field of the symbol as the sign relation in the semiosis process. This further explained that emoticon acts as symbols in language with interpretation in meaning based on the established context and sign relation process (Jannah et al., 2022). Emoticons are also known to enhance textual and contextual communications. This is related to how emoticons are highly used in online communication that often requires the participants to communicate through text where emoticons help them to clarify what they mean more clearly (Hanafi et al., 2021). Meanwhile, Kirana reveals that Instagram captions in the form of text and Instagram pictures are used for various purposes one of them as promotions or advertisements (Kirana, 2020). This demonstrated the use of the semiosis process and sign relation in aiding language based on the aimed purpose by manipulating the various elements available.

As the discussion on the semiotic phenomenon in online social media varies in results, this research especially aims to deepen the analysis of how the semiotic phenomenon portrays the expressions of happiness through the sign relation system identified from Instagram post captions. This discussion becomes interesting to determine how language is used in capturing the expression of happiness within the semiotic sense. This research specifically investigates the signs of happiness from an Indonesian public figure’s Instagram account Cinta Laura.
Kiehl who uses the platform as a way to connect with her fans and share about her personal life. The guiding concept of the semiosis process by Charles Sanders Peirce and Seligman’s happiness theory is used as the basis of the analysis included in this research.

2. Method

This research applied the qualitative method to present the data analysis. The qualitative research method includes the analysis of certain phenomena relating to human beings and their relation to society in the form of text, pictures, or any gathered data from the research participants (Cresswell & Cresswell, 2018). This is considered suitable to be applied in this research as the analysis focuses on the language phenomenon and its use within the online social media community. Moreover, the qualitative research method allows the analysis to be presented in the form of coherent texts including the ground theory and supporting facts gathered from the investigation (Cresswell & Cresswell, 2018). It further supports this research with the analysis that is guided by the ground theory of sign by Peirce and the theory of happiness by Seligman to provide a deep and comprehensive analysis of this research.

The main subject of this research is the selected Instagram posts captions from Cinta Laura Kiehl’s Instagram page. Cinta Laura Kiehl is an Indonesian public figure who uses her Instagram page to share about her works and daily activities as a celebrity. The main subject of this research is the collective Instagram captions that identified signs of happiness that were further analyzed in terms of the semiosis process through the concept of sign relation interpretation.

There are several steps done in collecting the data in this research. The first step is for the researchers to go through the Instagram posts captions from Cinta Laura Kiehl’s Instagram page. Secondly, the researchers mark the captions that include the expression of happiness. After the data is gathered, the researchers categorize the data based on the sign relations relating to Peirce’s theory of sign. Lastly, the researchers develop the analysis by relating the gathered data with Peirce’s semiosis process.

In analyzing the data, there are several steps followed by the researchers. Firstly, the gathered data are categorized based on the sign relations of symbols and icons. Next, the semiosis process is determined based on Peirce’s sign relations of representamen, object, and interpretant. After the semiosis process is determined, the researchers analyzed the meaning interpretation and its relation to the expression of happiness identified from Cinta Laura Kiehl’s Instagram captions. Moreover, in determining the trustworthiness of the data, this research applied theory triangulation in qualitative research. According to Denzin's theory triangulation refers to the use of several theoretical schemes in supporting the arguments and analysis in certain research. This is related to the use of the main theory of sign by Charles Sanders Peirce and the theory of happiness by Martin Seligman that are applied as the basics of analysis made in this research (Noble & Heale, 2019). Lastly, the conclusions are drawn based on the results of the analysis.

3. Findings and Discussion

3.1 Sign Relations in Cinta Laura Kiehl’s Instagram Caption

In this section, the symbols and icons identified from Cinta Laura Kiehl’s Instagram captions are further analyzed based on the semiosis process that determines the meaning drawn from the relation between the representamen and the object. The relations between symbols and icons are the representations of reality as the meaning needs to be further explored and understood based on the cultural associations that the communication participants mutually agree on (Ibrahim & Sulaiman, 2020). This means that the relations between symbols and icons are determined through the process of meaning interpretation that requires the participants to mutually understand the context related to the signs. The definition of the symbol itself refers to how the symbol stands for the actual object based on the symbol-using mind (Chandler, 2017). It means that symbols describe the object that it stands in which the relations are agreed upon. Jagalimu and Kasi also explained that the meaning interpretation of symbols can only be determined through the semiosis process as symbols do not always relate to their object in the literal sense (Jagalimu & Kasi, 2018). Thus, the meaning interpretation of symbols requires a sign interpretation process where the relationships between each aspect to one are determined. Aside from symbols, icons also require the semiosis process to determine their meaning. Van Niekerk explained that the iconic sign relation refers to the sign that has the characteristics of the object it stands for (van Niekerk, 2018). This means that icons have the visual representation that the object owns. Icons appear in several forms consisting of visual and audio (Ariwibowo & Priaditya, 2016). Relating to the analysis based on Cinta’s Instagram captions, the icons appear in the form of emoticons used along with the text caption she posted to her followers online.

Based on the Instagram captions gathered from Cinta Laura Kiehl’s Instagram page, she uses emoticons along with the text attached to the picture she posted to her followers. The use of emoticons is commonly identified in the online community in which their ways of communication are aided with the enhancement of visual icons that represent expressions from what they communicated in text. Emoticons refer to the icons or symbols used in non-verbal communication or texts that clarify the meaning aimed by the participants (Al-Mjdawi & Jabi, 2020). It means that emoticons enhance the clarity of what is being communicated through text. Moreover, the use of emoticons varies based on the user’s intention starting from expressing their feelings, gestures, colors, and so forth with the main use based on its particular context (Gibson et al., 2018). This explains how emoticons are used after the given context in the form of text which is also identified from the semiotic structures represented through Cinta’s Instagram caption that expresses happiness and other positive expressions in her Instagram posts. This section particularly includes the analysis of symbols and icons identified from Cinta’s Instagram post based on Peirce’s semiosis process.

The first data analysis is taken from Cinta Laura Kiehl’s Instagram post that expresses her happiness and excitement as the cover girl for the magazine Cosmopolitan. The Instagram caption consists of short text and emoticons that further convey a different meaning.

3.2 Expressions of Happiness in Cinta Laura Kiehl’s Instagram Captions

Based on the analysis of symbols and icons and the interpreted meaning, there are three expressions identified from Cinta’s Instagram captions that consist of happiness, excitement, and gratitude. The three expressions have different reasons that are included in the caption Cinta wrote as the context. The discussion on the sign of happiness shown by Cinta on her Instagram page is analyzed based on Seligman’s theory of happiness which divided happiness into two main categories of relationship and category. Seligman explained that the positive emotions in human beings are achieved through two domains of relationship which refers to the individual’s good relationship with people, society, and achievement which refers to what the individual achieved in life (Arcidiacono & Martino, 2016). Based on this, Cinta’s happiness is categorized based on the happiness achieved from relationships and achievements expressed through the Instagram captions she shared with her followers.

3.2.1 Cinta’s Happiness through Relationship

Cinta’s signs of happiness are shown through how she expresses her gratitude toward the people in her life that she appreciates. Within the concept of sign relations, a positive feeling is conveyed through each aspect of the sign system (Lomas, 2019). This means that the positive expressions and feelings are evident through the sign, object, and interpretant as analyzed in the preceding section. Relating to the sign of happiness identified through the symbols and icons sign relation from Cinta’s Instagram caption, the expression of happiness is achieved through good relationships which are considered as one of the main factors in human being concept of happiness. Human beings seek happiness by increasing their positive emotions (Awaludin, 2017). This is portrayed through Cinta who achieves her happiness by maintaining good relationships with her friends, colleagues, and family. Happiness is achieved through three main aspects consisting positive emotion, engagement, and meaning (Seligman, 2011). This explains how Cinta achieves her happiness through a relationship which further demonstrates the good engagement she has with the people in her life. This particular happiness is shown through her expression of gratitude identified from the Instagram captions she wrote along with the pictures of herself with her friends, colleagues, and family.
